

Aristeidis Kritis*Associate Professor, School of Medicine AUTH

He was born on 23rd of May 1960 in New Moudania of Chalkidiki.

He studied Biochemistry in the Biochemistry department of the University of Dundee in Scotland, from where he graduated with an Honors BSc in 1985. He completed his postgraduate thesis in the Medical School of the University of Crete and he was awarded his PhD in 1993. He was trained in molecular biology and biotechnology as well as in tissue culture and protein expression in the molecular genetics section of the Whitaker cardiovascular institute in the Boston University Medical Center in the USA. In 2001 he was elected lecturer and now he is an associate professor in physiology in the Physiology and Pharmacology department of the Medical School of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. His research interests include cell signaling in neurodegeneration with respect to inflammation and cell death, and tissue engineering. In 2014 he established a cGMP facility dedicated to cartilage and bone regeneration from adipose derived mesenchymal stem cells, development of personalized medical implants and cell therapies. Project manager and contact person for the project REMEDIC www.remedicproject.eu